Portfolio objective

To provide a long–term capital return in excess of the UT Mixed Investment 40-85% Shares Retail sector.

Investment approach

The objective is achieved by using a balanced investment approach, gaining exposure to a number of different asset types including shares and bonds across a broad range of international markets, enabling a better trade-off between risk and return. The performance of all the funds in the portfolio is constantly monitored and formally reviewed on a quarterly basis by our investment committee.

Portfolio manager's commentary

Markets experienced another positive quarter, with Europe and emerging markets leading the way. US equities endured a relatively weak quarter as scrutiny increased over the level of spending by the world's largest firms on the roll-out of their AI strategies. A weaker US dollar also reduced one traditional support for US market exceptionalism and encouraged some reallocation into cheaper international markets.

In Europe and parts of emerging markets, returns were bolstered because several sectors performed strongly in tandem. Banks benefited from an improving interest rate backdrop, defence stocks continued to attract flows with security high on the agenda, while energy companies were supported by rising commodity prices. The weaker US dollar also added a currency tailwind for many non-US assets, amplifying relative returns for UK-based investors.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income from them may fall as well as rise; you may get back less than the amount invested. Higher volatility investments are subject to sudden and large falls in value and could result in a loss equal to the sum invested. Certain investments (e.g. property) are not readily realisable and investors may experience difficulty in realising the investment or in obtaining reliable information on the value or associated risks. Changes in rates of exchange may have an adverse effect on the value, price or income of investments denominated in currencies other than Sterling.
