

High Income portfolio

Quarterly update - July 2020

Portfolio Manager

James Kempster
Manager since September 2019

Portfolio objective

To provide a higher level of income than our benchmark and a long-term capital return to protect the real value of the capital.

Investment approach

The objective is achieved by using an investment approach balanced between fixed interest securities and UK and international equity, allowing the portfolio to benefit from higher levels of income and also the potential for protection from inflation. The performance of all the funds in the portfolio is constantly monitored and formally reviewed on a quarterly basis by an investment committee.

Portfolio manager's commentary

The portfolio benefitted from the recovery that was experienced in most sectors over the quarter and rose by more than 10%. It also returned to positive territory over 12 months which considering the scale of the fall in the first three months of the year is great to see. Yields have remained stable despite the reduction or cancellation of dividends and persistently low interest rates around the world. While there could be temporary rises in yields, this situation is unlikely to change even over the longer term especially if we have to contend with negative rates in the UK and this should be a consideration for investors looking to take a natural income.

We have made a number of adjustments to the funds used within the portfolio, both from an asset allocation perspective and also at the fund level. This included the removal of M&G North American Dividend which was not providing a sufficient level of diversification when compared to the low-cost tracker with which it was paired. Full details of the changes being recommended are outlined on the Fund Changes summary which is available on our website.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income from them may fall as well as rise; you may get back less than the amount invested. Higher volatility investments are subject to sudden and large falls in value and could result in a loss equal to the sum invested. Certain investments (e.g. property) are not readily realisable and investors may experience difficulty in realising the investment or in obtaining reliable information on the value or associated risks. Changes in rates of exchange may have an adverse effect on the value, price or income of investments denominated in currencies other than Sterling.
