Manager since July 2010

Portfolio objective

To provide a long-term capital return in excess of the UT Mixed Investment 40-85% Shares Retail sector.

Investment approach

The objective is achieved by using a balanced investment approach, gaining exposure to a number of different asset types including shares and bonds across a broad range of international markets, enabling a better trade-off between risk and return. The performance of all the funds in the portfolio is constantly monitored and formally reviewed on a quarterly basis by our investment committee.

Portfolio manager's commentary

After the initial shock from US tariff announcements in April, markets regained ground during the quarter as Donald Trump enacted a pause and shifted focus to negotiating deals with key trading partners, including the UK, Japan and the EU. This helped reduce uncertainty and lifted share prices globally, though gains were again concentrated in a small number of large US tech firms. Meanwhile, concerns resurfaced around Trump's major tax and spending plans, which rely heavily on future tariff income and could significantly increase US government debt.

At this review we made one main change at a sector level and that was to reduce the cash weighting in favour of Gilts. As interest rates continue to fall, the lower the return will be on cash assets. Whilst we still value the sector for its defensive characteristics, we believe there is better value to be found in Gilts which benefit from falling interest rates. We also refreshed our Global Equity weighting including the sale of our holding in Axa Health, reducing Fundsmith Equity and the introduction of two new funds. Full details of the changes being recommended can be found on our website.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of investments and any income from them may fall as well as rise; you may get back less than the amount invested. Higher volatility investments are subject to sudden and large falls in value and could result in a loss equal to the sum invested. Certain investments (e.g. property) are not readily realisable and investors may experience difficulty in realising the investment or in obtaining reliable information on the value or associated risks. Changes in rates of exchange may have an adverse effect on the value, price or income of investments denominated in currencies other than Sterling.
